

Your Tech Stack Is the Key to an Empowered Remote Workforce

The business community is facing unprecedented disruption due to the COVID-19 pandemic. No one has a crystal ball to see into the future, but one trend has quickly emerged: As employees are maintaining social distancing, companies are reevaluating the software they use to better facilitate remote work. Do you have the right remote work tech stack in place to grow your company's competitive edge—and empower the success of your team?

88%

of employees are being encouraged or required to work remotely in response to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Working remotely is new to many people, and employees have concerns.

Top 3 Concerns:

51%

of employees are worried about their ability to remain productive in a remote work environment.

Workers are already facing technology issues while working from home...

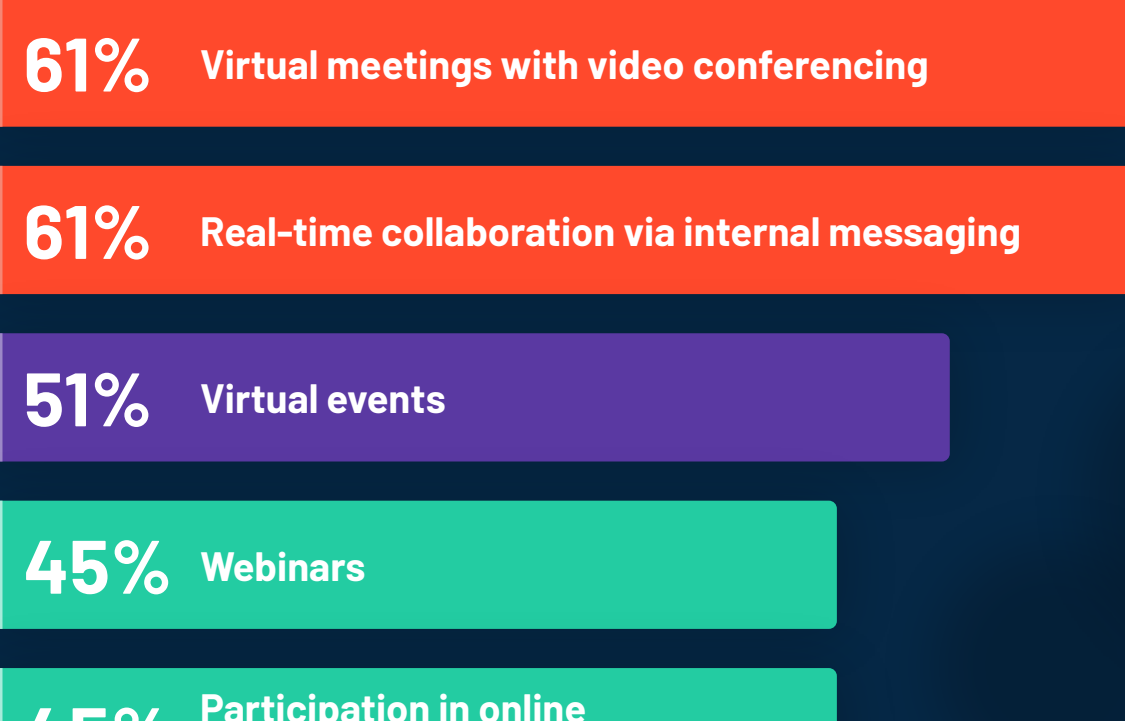

...as well as disruptions to their normal processes

Interactions that were once face to face are now being facilitated virtually.

PERCENTAGE OF WORKERS WHO HAVE SEEN AN INCREASE IN:

Throughout these changes, investing in the right technology is in many ways more important than ever.

The people who have the software they need to do their jobs are more comfortable working remotely at a rate of

31%

Empower your distributed workforce with a centralized tech stack.

The foundation of your remote work tech stack

Collaboration

Video Conferencing, Internal Communications, Collaborative Whiteboard, Screen Sharing

People

Employee Engagement, Employee Recognition, Learning Experience Platform, Performance Management

Productivity

Project & Portfolio Management, Task Management, Time Tracking

Security

VPN, Multi-Factor Authentication, User Provisioning/Governance, Cloud Email Security

Sales & Support

Conversation Intelligence, Sales Enablement, Contract Management, Customer Success

Remote Service Delivery

E-Commerce Platforms, Telemedicine, Virtual Classroom, HIPAA Compliant Messaging, eNotary

Data collected from 676 respondents from March 24–27, 2020. Individuals surveyed are businesspeople who are currently working remotely full-time, 88% of whom are working from home directly in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. Respondents reside in North America, APAC, or EMEA, come from all industries and roles, and comprise a mix of G2 users and outside respondents.